

Veracity Research Company (VRC) Announces Acquisition of Probe Information Services

July 11, 2019

Veracity Research Company (VRC), a professional investigative service firm specializing in all aspects of insurance defense investigations and portfolio company of Trinity Hunt Partners, today announced the acquisition of Probe Information Services (Probe).

Founded in 1992, Probe is one of the Western region's most well established and recognized firms providing surveillance, background, field investigations and SIU fraud abatement and compliance services. This strategic addition emphasizes and enhances VRC's growing footprint in the Western U.S.

"We are excited to welcome the Probe team to our rapidly expanding platform," said Marcus Doyle, CEO of VRC. "VRC looks forward to introducing Probe's clientele to our national capabilities and is pleased to continue to grow our presence in the broader Western U.S. region."

"I am honored to stay invested and to partner with VRC to enhance the support and growth of our clients and employees while always remaining focused on our collective strengths of leading our investigative industry," said Ross Stewart, President of Probe.

Dalene Bartholomew, Vice President of Probe, added, "Through this combination, Probe will expand its footprint and enjoy the benefits of serving as a part of a premier national firm, while providing the same best-in-class client experience upon which Probe was founded. Now our clients can enjoy an even more robust service platform for all of their investigative needs."

The executive management team of Probe, including Stewart and Bartholomew, will remain with the business going forward.

According to Pete Stein, Managing Partner of Trinity Hunt, "The addition of Probe to the VRC platform is an important continuation of our strategic acquisition plan. We look forward to working with the leadership teams as we accelerate our growth plans both organically and through future add-on acquisitions"
